

The San Juan Star

The only Pulitzer Prize-Winning Publication in Puerto Rico

Virgin Islands 85¢

Tuesday, December 10, 1996

Puerto Rico 35¢

Pierluisi killer pleads guilty

Defendant said he thought Pierluisi was a law enforcement officer. Page 3

Razing moves slowly, safely

Guillermo Toledo, an engineer with Empresas Toledo, says that demolition work on the Humberto Vidal Building has been proceeding slowly because of concerns about the safety of the workers involved. Workers on Monday were removing rubble from inside the building in preparation for the removal of the roof and the top two floors of the damaged building. The building is at upper right.

Page 6

STAR photo by Ingrid Torres

BUSINESS

Caribbean, Latin America seek ways to improve trade

Miami conference speakers advocate policy to compete with NAFTA and the EU. Page B39

PORTFOLIO

Classy music newsletter marks 10th anniversary

Published three times a year, "El Atril" keeps the music world informed, entertained. Page 21

Rosselló: Young status bill could redefine concept of commonwealth

Governor calls for defining process which would include all parties coming to Washington. Page 2

Bloody weekend comes to a close with 12 people killed islandwide

Toledo summons 11 regional police commanders to an emergency meeting. Page 3

Subscribe now to The San Juan Star 782-4200